Sam Naukana was fined $25 and costs this morning for furious driving near the King street bridge. This is the man who nearly ran over a Chinese girl.

Hollister & Co. have always been at the top of the heap as tobacconists. They can give satisfaction to all fancies in that line. See their illustrated card in this paper.

This is Alexander Young's birthday and he gave Wray Taylor $10 for the Lepers' Christmas. This evening he will entertain the employees of the Honolulu Iron Works.

The woman's edition of the Time next week will be on sale at the bookstores and other places to be designated later. Its price will be ten cents the first day and twenty-five cents thereafter.

Pictures rank first as suitable presents at any time. King Bros have thousands to select from with framing materials to suit any taste or any purse. Visitors are always welcome.

"STAR" REPORTING.

No Warrant Has Been Sworn to Against Miranda.

Yesterday's Star contained the following:

"Arthur Miranda, an employee of the BULLETIN office, was arrested at noon on a warrant sworn to by A. V. Gear, charging him with the larceny of certain stamps valued at $175. Mr. Gear is something of a philatelist and has quite a collection of old Hawaiian issues of stamps. The boy has had access to them with the result that a number of valuable specimens are missing. Charge is larceny in second degree.

With the exception of the statements that Arthur Miranda is not an employee of the BULLETIN office, that he was not arrested on a warrant sworn to by A. V. Gear charging him with the larceny of stamps and that he is not yet charged with larceny in the second degree, and that the boy has not had access to Mr. Gear's large collection of old Hawaiian issues of stamps, the above item of the Star is perfectly correct.

Japanese Hat Factory.

A straw hat factory has been started by Japanese on Nuanu near Hotel street. Both men and women's headwear is made, and the stitching is done by machine. Some fine work is turned out, such as imitation Panama hats for men and fancily braided and shaped hats for women. The firm's name is on an elegant label inside the hat, after the manner of the great hat-makers abroad. This new enterprise is likely to make inroads into the native women's business of hat making.

FROM THE FATHERLAND

BELIEVED THAT A CABINET CRISIS IS COMING.

Campaign Against Socialists Under an Antiquated Law—Forecast of Proceedings in Reichstag.

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—Everything points to a Cabinet crisis, in spite of official denials. The positions of Herr von Koeller, the Prussian Minister for the Interior; Dr. von Boetticher, the vice-president of the Council of Ministers and Imperial Secretary of State for Interior; General Bronsart von Schellendorf, the Minister of War; Freiherr von Berlepsch, the Minister of Commerce, and Freiherr Marschall von Vichersheim, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and even that of Herr von Lucius, the chief of the Imperial Civil Cabinet, are said to be shaken.

Evidences of widespread court intrigue to get rid of the ministers who are distasteful to the agrarians, conservatives and military parties have come to the surface recently. Herr von Koeller is, apparently, the Minister who is the most threatened. The Emperor, it is stated, is displeased at the recent maladroit prosecutions for lese majeste, especially the case of Professor Delbrueck, which were ordered by Herr von Koeller. The Cabinet itself, moreover, is divided respecting the expediency of the extreme anti-socialist measures adopted by the police, and nobody would be astonished to hear of a ministerial upheaval.

The emperor during the last few days has been treating General von Schweinitz, former German Minister to Russia, with marked distinction, and it is whispered in court circles that he will succeed Herr von Koeller as Minister of the Interior. The latter, however, continues to enjoy the approbation of the Conservatives.

Count von Mirbach, the leader of the Conservative party, has issued a manifesto to the electors of East Prussia, in which he rejects for his party the overtures of the National Liberals, and declares that the Conservative Center will continue to constitute a majority of the Reichstag, and the Diet and the Government can have the party support only in exchange for some measure similar to the Kanitz grain monopoly bill and the reinstitution of bimetalism as clearly defined. The Government programme, modeled largely on the policy of Prince Bismarck, he declares, is absolutely required to induce confidence in the Government. This manifesto is clearly aimed at the majority of the present Cabinet.

The extraordinary police campaign against the socialists during the past week, involving the search of the houses of all the socialist leaders, including the members of the Reichstag, and the closing of about a dozen of the leading socialist clubs is based on the antiquated Prussian law of associations, dating back to 1850. Every day this week raids have been made upon the clubs and residences of socialists in Berlin and other towns, and about a score of the leading socialists are to be prosecuted.

The police have summarily closed eleven socialist clubs here, including six Reichstag Electoral Clubs, the club of the socialist press committee, the club of the socialist party delegates and that of the central committee of the German Socialist party. The closing of these big socialist clubs has caused the greatest flutter in socialist circles, and the matter will be brought before the Reichstag, when exciting debates are expected.

In spite of the repression the socialists remain defiant, and the Voorwarts, the organ of the party, prints an ironical article advising Herr von Koeller to continue the persecution, claiming that it will tend to make the Socialist party stronger and more harmonious, and citing the results of the era of Tessenlof, during which the Socialist party sextupled.

The reopening of the Reichstag on Tuesday next will be without special brilliancy. The nature of all the Government's bills is known, and there will be no surprises during the session, though it is expected to be a stormy one on account of the introduction of extraneous matter, such as the lese majeste prosecutions, and the Hammerstein letters are sure to lead to heated discussions.
